On the mission of Raider Dad

"I support Raider Dad because the mission is bigger than football. It's about giving kids in our community—especially those facing hardships—a chance to experience the magic of game day at Allegiant Stadium. These aren't just tickets; they are core memories that give families a needed break from reality and inspire the next generation to dream big."

VEGAS RAIDER DAD
Growing up, some of my most meaningful memories were going to Raiders games with my Dad. Thursday, Sunday, and Monday nights were all about football in our house. Being a part of Raider Nation together created a bond that has stayed with me my entire life. Even now, when I walk into Allegiant Stadium, I still feel close to him, like a piece of those moments lives on.

THAT'S WHY I DONATE GAME TICKETS EVERY YEAR TO RAIDER DAD. I WANT CHILDREN AND FAMILIES TO EXPERIENCE WHAT I ONCE LONGED FOR: THE JOY, THE EXCITEMENT, AND THE CORE MEMORIES THAT ARE CREATED WHEN YOU SHARE MOMENTS AT SPORTING EVENTS WITH THE PEOPLE YOU LOVE. THOSE MEMORIES LAST A LIFETIME.

Family bonds passed on

Being born into a Raider family, I was immediately drawn to the mission of Raider Dad. Raider games have always been a common bond between me and my dad. Now I enjoy those same Raider conversations and games with my grandson. It's important to pass that passion down.

Fans support our mission because they believe in passing down what matters most—family traditions, relationships, and the opportunities they were given... or wish they had. Through their generosity, we help ensure that every child has the chance to experience #RaiderNation —even if it's just for one unforgettable day.
